Although your Cooking School visitor much prefers the honest, old-fashioned word, doughaut, this food by any other spelling tastes as sweet. Therefore the guests should be happy, whether you serve donuts or doughnuts.

An old-fashioned game favorite is the doughaut bobbing contest. Not as messy as an apple bobbing, it is sure to produce a room full of laughs. The doughnuts are ted to strings and suspended from another overhead siting that is kept wiggling. Naturally, the doughauts jump about just as the contestants, who have had their hands fied behind their backs, try to take a bite. The person funshing the entire doughaut first is the winner.

Home-made doughnuts at Halloween. What could be more appropriate? One of the favorite cooking school recipes substitutes orange Juice and grated orange rind for spices, however this recipe is the old-time type. For delicate flavor variation, try rubbing 2 teaspoons grated orange rind into the sugar with which doughnuts are dusted.

Four cups flour, ½ teaspoon mand, ½ teaspoon nutines, ½ teaspoon solt, 1 teaspoon sold, ½ teaspoon shortening, ½ cup sugar, 4 eags yolk, 1 cup thick sour milk.

Sift flour, spices, kalt, soda and cream of tartar together 3 times. Cream shortening and sugar until well blended, Add beaten egg yolks and mix whell. Add milk and mix thoroughly. Add sifted dry ingredients an mix unt. smooth. With as little handling as possible, roll dough on floured board to 3% inch thickness. Let dough stand 20 minutes. Cut with 3 inch doughnut cutter. Fry in deep hot fat 375 degrees F. or until a 1 inch cube of bread will brown in about 40 seconds. Peel bananas and cut each into 3 ar 4 diagonal fleeces. Roll in flour. Drop into fritter batter, completely coalling the banana pieces with the batter. (Use all-yellow bananas.)

Deep-fat frying, have deep kotted 1/2 to 2/3 full of melted shortening. For shallow frying, have 1 inch of melted shortening in frying pan.

"Phillip is waiting to see me?" she queried, and i made the mental comment that she was worth any amount of waiting. She was perfectly groomed and her white hair was like a crown above a face that once had been "the loast of Europe," and was still lovely. Her lustrous dark eyes were sparkling, and in the costume robe, one of the few which she quixotically had insisted upon accepting from the Verltzen theatrical storehouse because they were worth nothing as modern gowns, she was what our moviemented malk would call "efery eench a queen."

"It is the only course we can follow just now," Lillian replied gravely, 'but let us hope that they can be answered. And you certninly may ask as many as you please, on any subject."

A Scheme Goue Awry

Handy for Decerations

If you are not in the mood for bobbing or dancing, doughnuts, will work into the decotation scheme for the Halloween party. For a centerpiece, use a large colorful pumpkin. Hang doughnuts in a circle around the top of the pumpkin, using toothpics as southers. For the children's party, a Do-nut Russe is suggested. Split su-gared doughnuts in half length-wise and again crosswise, making four sticks out of each. Stand these up in sherbet glasses as for a charlotte russe. Fill glasses with any ted-colored gelatine, such as strawbery, raspherry or others.

rated doughnuts in half lengthwise and again crosswise, making four sticks out of each, Stand these up in sherbet glasses as for a charlotte russe. Fill glasses with any ted-colored gelatine, such as strawberry, raspherry or cherry. Allow to set. Tep with a maraschine cherry.

Also for the youngsters, serve coeca and place a maislandlow in each doughnut, and a moderate oven long enough for the marshinallow in o puff and color slightly—and to warm the doughnut, through bakeries supply doughnuts these days, many homemakers will want to "roll their own" and fry them in a shortening, using the successful Cooking School recipe and method.

I-The Campaign

This is the first in a series of editorials summing up the qualifications of Wendell L. Willkle to be President of the United

A MIRACLE happened last June in the Repub-lican convention at Philadelphia. Delegates, sobered by two overwhelming defeats in general elections, gave the party's presidential nomination to a political outsider-a man qualified by intelligence, convictions and ideals, instead of The miracle of Philadelphia was obscured by the crisis in which it occurred—the crisis of war in Europe. The people's attention was diverted. Meanwhite, Mr. Wilkie and his advisors, many of them political newcomers like himself, planned a campaign. They created no sensation. They made no major mistakes, Finally, in September, they were ready to start. Mr. Willkie began to talk. He began to deliver his message of revived hope in the future of America, of a higher stendard of living by more efficient production, of the right of Individuals to think of themselves as the masters instead of the servants of the state.

Sympathizers listened, Opponents jeered, Some so far forgot their responsibilities to representative democracy as to act like totalitarian hoodlums. But they were a minority. The candidate's faith in his convictions was sustained by the encouragement of huge crowds which turned out to see and hear him.

What seemed at the outset to be a buttle against hopeless odds was transformed by Mr. Willkie's courage and persistence in staling his opinions into a close contest. Despite one-party strangulation of the solid south, despite metropolitan political machines controlled by the New Deal, despite the strongly intrenched position of the party in power. Wendell Willkle has moved within striking distance of election to the presidency.

He has done this amazing thing-this miracle —by wholly un-miraculous means. His compaign been conducted on a plane of recognizable truth. Out of those truths he has forged a crusade for the kind of government he thinks America needs and wants.

He has revitalized the courage and convictions of his countrymen by the example of his own unrelenting faith in their ideals. The miracle of Philadelphia was not in valu. The man who was not a politician is giving the man who never was anything but a politician the run of his life.

The Refugees Meet Us

SOME things about the United States must be explained to refugees apologetically. If each of them could read a booklet prepared by the secretary of the Committee on Refugees of the national board of Y. M. C. A., they'd have a clearer idea of their new country's aims and purposes.

"Meet the Refugees" is the booklet's title. It's content, paraphrased too briefly to do justice to a beautiful exposition of America's ideals, is this: Despite a few spreaders of hale and misinformation, we are proud that this country is a haven for oppressed people. We have been blessed by tragic events abroad with some of the world's most devout believers in democracy who have come here to escape persecution. We are determined to live up to the fuith that caused them to come here. We will not let hate, fear and ignorance put out the glowing torch of liberty. We will meet the refugees from terrorism more than half way to help make the safer world they hope may be created some day in America's image.

Correspondence

N announcement from an organization called A announcement from an organization the Council for Democracy says it will revive a famous tradition of American historythe committees of correspondence of Revolutionary war days. The prospect pleases.

Every national election year newspaper offices are flooded with letters from all parts of the country-letters intended to change opinions already made, or solidify opinions in the making. With differences due to passage of time, such letters are just about the same as the letters with which the founding fathers exchanged ideas. Those who saw "The Howards Of Virginia" will recall the scenes in which messengers spread the gospel of revolt. It is fun to get them, fun to read them, and one imagines it must have been fun to write them.

Revolt is not, of course, the purpose of the committee of correspondence being formed by the Council for Democracy; it will use correspondence to distribute information, calling on scholars for research on contemporary problems. "A better informed public opinion will result," the announcement predicts. Perhaps so. One thing which is certain to result, if the job is done right, is the fun that comes from getting a letter.

Steel production is now 93 per cent of its capacity and the defense program is hardly started. One or two authorities in steel contend the theoretical capacity limit can be stretched up perhaps 8 points more, but the government experts all seem to believe that current operations are right at the limit, Either new factories must be built immediately or the use of steel for non-military purposes must be curtailed. Curtailment would mean limiting the supply of automobiles, refrigerators, and needed human goods. But the steel manufacturers do not want to put a lot of money in new plants which will only lie idle after the war is over. If the added capacity can be obtained in no other way the New Dealers want the government to build the factories directly, or indirectly through loans, in such a way as to retain title, but the steel men maturally consider this to be so-cialism.

Other industries functioning at or near capacity are the machinery industry, machine tools, textiles, aviation and ship building.

How to Toughen Troops

Send 'Em North in Wan.

A PLAN which he considers practical for training recruits to adapt themselves to climatic change without loss of military efficiency, a factor of utmost importance in maintaining the health and endurance of an army, is outlined in The Journal of the American Medical Association for Oct. 26 by Charles I. Singer, M. D. Long Beach, N. Y.

"Any plan for military presentedness based on a difference without may be role as a parallel of gradual hardening by progressive exposure," he points out. warfare. Adherence to the Mon-roe doctrine may necessitate the sudden dispatch of troop units with considerable striking power sufficient to prevent invasion or to break enemy footholds in any part of the Americas. Extending from one arctic region to the other, the Americas present all types of climate and all varieties of climatic change. Diseases of climatic change. Diseases caused by abrupt climatic change caused by abrupt climatic change or by; prolonged exposure are manifold and constitute important problems of preventive medicine in warfare. Troop movements, therefore, must always carefully take into account the degree of climatic change involved lest the efficiency of the fighting force be considerably, even dangerous-ly, impaired.

Through the hardening process the system acquires a direct defense mechanism acquires. direct defense mechanism against sudden and marked changes in the external environment, while the use of clothing and heating constitutes an indirect defense. It is not sufficient to adapt soldders to sudden climatic changes alone. They must be able to endure prolonged climatic exposures associated with physical strain."

As examples of lack of stamina with good climatic adaptation, Dr. Singer cites the experience of the Russian soldiers in the recent war in Finland and of the French and English troops in the recent Norwegian campaign. direct defense mechanism against Abrupt climatic changes, the author says may bring to the fore latent diseases such as tuberculosis, arthritis, heart disease and respiratory infection. Such changes also tend to lower general resistence to acute infections. Direct defense against such changes must be made a major consideration in the training of recruits, he says, if the efficiency of the fighting force is not to be impaired. He recommends the creation of a special climatic advisory board comprising meteorologists, physicists, chemists and biechemists. The functions of this board would include establishment of standards of training by evaluating the result of training in chapter of the standards of training by evaluating the result of training in chapter of the standards of training by evaluating the result of training of the contraction of the standards of training by evaluating the result of training by evaluating the result of training by evaluating the result of training in chapter of the standards of training by evaluating the result of training in chapter of the standards of training by evaluating the result of the standards of training by evaluating the result of the standards of training by evaluating the result of the standards of training by evaluating the standards of training the standards of traini ing the result of Iraining in ch-matic relationship, acting as con-sultants in troop movements, and setting up standards for distribu-

Would Keep Charts

"Individual climatic endurance charts are recommended as aids in determining the adaptability of the soldier of whom special duties may be required. Artificially controlled climatic testing laboratories for testing such adaptability may be readily reproduced with modern air conditioning apparatus. It will therefore be possible to select men for special tasks from among those who can adapt most quickly to changes in environment as observed in artificially controlled test rooms. Thus a yardstick on which to base the training of others will also be provided. Seven million dollars has been appropriated for an army aviation test station at Fairbanks, Individual climatic endurance been appropriated for an army aviation test station at Fairbanks, Alaska, to be ready in November, to study the behavior of airplane motors in arctic climates. will have to retire. Conditions at the box windows on Friday, Saturday and Sunday have become outrageous and alarming references of out-of-towners are knockingulars hell-west-and-crooked and tranus underfoot as we endeavor to follow on established procedure of first consulting the ticket sellers as to the merits of the picture inside before purchasing our ducats. The strangers do not seem to care whether the picture is any good or not and huy tickets without inquiry, a hasty practice that is having a bad effect on ticket sellers.

It has had a tendency to fluster the sellers and sharpen their tempers, so when us regulars come along and open our interrogations, we get short answers. This is not at all in Damon Ru keeping with the old time friendly spi answers. This is not at all in Damon Runyon keeping with the old time friendly spirit of Brondway. We can remember when you could chat for 5 or 10 minutes with a licket selfer concerning the picture on display and get a full synopsis of the plot and enlightening comment on the performance of the various actors, even sometimes a kindly warning not to waste time seeing it. NOW, WHAT with all the strangers in tow?

NOW, WHAT with all the strangers in town on week-ends eager to buy tickets regardless, the sellers just mumble unintelligibly at the most familiar faces and manifest an unneighborly disposition to hurry a once delightfully leisurely transaction. Even the doorner seem to be getting a trifle impersonal. In short us regular C. C.'s are commencing to feel that going to the movies on Broadway is losing a tot of its old homey asmosphere.

Every week-end lately has been the same at election night without horns. It seems impossible to trace the flood of immigration to any one source, though Broadway traffic cops report an unusually large number of wrong turns in motorists on these nights, which points the finger of suspicion at New Jersey. Apparently the quota on New Jersey immigration is no being rigidly enforced.

Ordinarily, we might feel disposed to well come the visitors to our city, but when it tood us two hours to struggle through the mob of the sidewalks from 42nd street north to the Capitol at 51st last Saturday night and there were shut out like a guy with a belated tip it front of a suddenly slammed parti-mutuels window, we got good and sore.

It was our fifth attempt to get into the Capitol to see Charley Chaplin in "The Great Dictor." We finally made it at a late Sunda, night showing when the week-end invasion hat thinned out a bit. So we can now report to yo as a C. C. on the picture in which Charley is said to have sluck nearly two million of his own clams and several years of work an which some of the critics did not fancy an, too much because of a windy message delivere by Charley as a finish.

That's the only way we ever judge a picture. That's the only way we ever judge a picture we note that some of the critics remarked that in spots it was the old Chaplin. We think that it the way through it is better than the old Chaplin, which leads to the confession that we were not always entranced by his work if the past.

We realize the old Chaplin was a great artis

We realize the old Chaplin was a great artist of the point of monotony. We think "The Great Dictator" presents a new Chaplin while saway ahead of the old. The picture is gorgeous satire on Hitler and Mussolini, wit Jack Oakie turning in the best job of his caree as the latter.

As for the message at the finish, we figure it is just something the little guy has had on his chest for years and felt he simply had: say. The saying does not harm the entertainment value of the picture, even though it may not help. Paulette Goddard is the girl in "The Great Dictator" and while she does not have great deal to do, they cannot make her unloved even by smudging her face with soot and drapin her in rags.

That, by the bye, strikes us a terrible this to do to Paulette Goddard.

It Could Happen

It is mathematically possible for a candidate to be elected president of the United State while getting only about one-half as many popular votes as his opponent. KLAMATH FALLS, Orc.—Humans may have reamed parts of Oregon 4,200 to 7,500 years ago, vying for existence with camels, elephants and pleistocene horses. Scientists are not ready to make a definite announcement, but Dr. L. S. Cressman; University of Oregon anthropologist, sees a posibility that humans witnessed the volcanic fury which blew the top off Mount Mazama and formed Crater lake.

Working under the supervision of Dr. Cressman, field investigators have recovered several hundred crude tools and weapons of bone and stone as well as hu-

Human occupation of the terri-

Human occupation of the territory apparently was in two distinct periods, one very ancient, the scientist said.

Bones and artifacts of humans were found with those of prehistoric earnivores, camels, elephants and ploistocene horses, but it remains to be determined whether they fell together naturally or were thrown together by erosion.

However, Dr. Cressman said, It annears probable" that humans ived there from 2,200 to 5,500

Republican Ticket

TO THE VOTERS OF THE 8TH OHIO DISTRICT

DURING THE TWO YEARS FREDERICK C. SMITH HAS SERVED AS YOUR CONGRESSMAN HE HAS MADE AN EXTENSIVE STUDY OF THE MANY REMEDIES THAT HAVE BEEN APPLIED TO CURE OUR SICK ECONOMY.

HERE IS HOW IT WORKS . .

During the first 6 years that they have been in operation, (June 30, 1933 to June 30, 1939), OHIO has received in Grants, Payments, Subsidies and Benefits according to U. S. Government Figures $1,380,-000,000. While at the same time it has cost OHIO $2,240,000,000 in TAXES and MORTGAGES. OHIO has been FILCHED out of $860,000,000.

Taking Mississippi for example, we find that in the same 6-year period Mississippi received, according to U. S. Government Figures, $435,000,000 in Grants, Payments, Subsidies and Benefits. At the same time it only cost Mississippi $40,659,000. Making Mississippi show a profit of $394,000,000 while OIIIO shows a loss.

THIS PROGRAM DIVIDES THE 48 STATES INTO TWO CLASSIFICATIONS—"GOAT STATES," LIKE OHIO THAT HAVE BEEN FILCHED, AND "SHEEP STATES" LIKE MISSISSIPPI THAT HAVE PROFITED AT THE OTHER STATES' EXPENSE. THERE ARE 36 "SHEEP STATES" PROFITING AT THE EXPENSE OF 18 "COAT STATES."

IN THE 6 YEARS THE SCHEME HAS OPERATED, THE 18 GOAT STATES HAVE BEEN TAXED AND MORTGAGED $35,000,000,000 AND IN RETURN RECEIVED ONLY $15,000,000,000. DURING THE SAME TIME THE 30 SHEEP STATES HAVE HAD ALL COSTS OF THE PROGRAM RE-FUNDED AND IN ADDITION SHOW A PROFIT OF $6,000,000,000.

LEGISLATION EMBODYING SUCH PRACTICE IS NOT REPRESENTATIVE OF ALL THE PEOPLE AND CANNOT BE DEFENDED. CONCRESSMAN SMITH HAS VIGOROUSLY OPPOSED SUCH LEGISLATION.

"HIS RECORD AS YOUR CONCRESSMAN IS HIS PLATFORM."

NEW YORK—While Max Boer is going through the final preparations to confirm the widespread suspicion that he was born to be an actor, and not a fighter, Primoter Mike Jacobs is continuing his building for a Bear-Billy Conn bout next week, with the winner to be tossed in with Joe Louis for the heavyweight title.

Baser is permitting his pugilistic conneback to be temporarily interrupted by his musical connedy debut next month, but will be ready to resume his career by the time they get Conn sufficiently built up as a heavyweight. In fact, he may be ready much quicker than that he has fought on certain occusions he has fought on certain occasions. At any rate, the show which costars him will be given a tryout on the road, then will come to Broadway for the biggest moment of Baer's life.

Can't you just picture him In there nammering away at a mile a minute. You can if you have watched him exercise his flair for histrionics in the ring or any other place where there was a crowd to encourage his antics. However, good or had, he will pick up a few thousand with the show, if things go well, and will be ready then to match his 230 pounds against Com's 170-odd, by the time the latter has outstabbed a few more second and third-the time the latter has outstabbed after is to be Conn's big'test. They have wisely decided not to throw Conn in with Louis cold turkey.

So what will happen between Baer and Conn's Baer should be able to belt a little fellow like that right off the premises, but one of the saddest experiences in his life came to him against another light heavyweight, Tommy Loughbran, when both Baer and Laughran were at their peak. Beer didn't land a punch all night and, at one stage of the fight, all but gave up.

A heckler had been holiering at Baer to hit him until finally Baer dropped his hands, turned unconcernedly away from Loughran and replied:

"If you think you can hit him come on up here a stage of the second."

"If you think you can hit him come on up here and try it."
That stopped the heckler, but not Loughran who went on pepperBaer and dancing around the ring almost as though he was even got up a good sweet.

He might never hil Conn, but he at least wouldn't be afraid to try it, and it probably would be a good fight.

Hovering over the proceedings, however, would be the shadow of Louis, and you can go out and bet that Baer wants no part of the champlen usain.

Coun is just the opposite, He is itching to fight Louis, because he sincerely believes he can win the heavyweight litte. He doesn't think the man lives or has ever lived who can beat him. He is that

And if he can beat Baer there will be no keeping Conn out of a Louis match.

Ohio State's Line Gives Before Cornell Attack

Most Landsberg, Cornell fullback, found this hole in the Ohlo State line in the first quarter the intersectional game at Ithaca. Cornel remained undefeated by conquering the Buckeyes, 21 to 7. No. 22 is Anderson and No. 29 is Clair, both Ohio State ends.

thran, with all his success based on Conn, course, can't punch a nickel's worth, and wouldn't have anything which to scare Baer off, if the latter should go in there tipping and tearing as he might be expected to do, knowing that Conn can't hurt him.

Look at what he did to Tony Galento and Pat Comiskey. He made Galento quit, after finding out how easy it is to duck that wide Galento quit, after finding out how easy it is to duck that wide Galento left hook. Baer was nervous and none too enthusiastic about the evening's work when he first went into the ring, then ducked a couple of swings and pourred it on Galento. He never had the slightest fear of green and inept Comiskey. And after the latter had landed his Sunday punch without hurting Baer the latter waded in with both hands finiling to end it all before he had even got up a good sweat.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 28—An accusation by Ohio State university's athletic bosses that Coach Carl Snavely 'quarterbacked' his victorlous Cornell team from the bench in Saturday's game is unwarranted and contrary to fact," Snavely reported today.

The charge came from L. W. S. John, Ohio State athletic director, and Coach Francis A. Schmidt shortly after the Bucks were drubbed 21 to 7 at Ifinaca. N. Y. Snavely. St. John explained, manipulated a light-colored cylinder to direct his team. He would grasp it by the end for a pass play, St. John said, in the center for a sweep, in both hands for a line smash, and then cross his legs and swing a foot to indicate he wanted a punt.

"It was a crime," Schmidt remarked.

Snavely gave this reply:

INDIANS' DIRECTORS MEET TO NAME BOSS

Bradley Admits Talking to Harris and Sewell.

By The Associated Press CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 28

Any time things get dull around Cleveland, just start talking about the rebellious Indians and the body has an opinion about tra-

Tongues wagged fervently as directors of the club were called together to do something about a 1941 manager.

Alva Bradley, club president, denying almost everything asked of him, would admit only two things:

or num, would admit only ter things:

That he had talked with Bucky Harris, Washington pilot, and Luke Sewell, Cleveland cosce, about the job and that director about the job and that directors definitely would make a decision on Vitt today.

"I can't say we will name a new manager at this meeting." Bradley declared. "We will go into all the possibilities after by vitt situation is cleared up."

The 44-year-old Harris, inyears a big league manager, was atop the mythical list. Asked at his Washington home whether he would take the job if it were cleared in the parried:

his Washington home whether referred him, he parried:

"Well, that's one of trace things where you're looking into a crystal ball."
Sewell, reached at his home is Akron, O., said:

"As far as I know there is ro job open. Sure I would be interested if there is. A man always wants to better himself."

Asked if he believed he could check dissension on the club, he former Cleveland catcher replied

"Certainly, I wouldn't take the job if I didn't think so."

Mickey Cochrane, who pilotel lotting to the world title in 1933, and Roger Peckinpaugh, Cleveland manager from 1928 to 1933, were rated dark horses.

Bradley's insistence that was on the list occasioned sorte surprise in that the 1940 manager.

Bradley's insistence that was on the list occasioned sortium in a post-season interview at all california home, blamed lack of front-office support for some of the team's troubles.

Outcome Important

We must await developments before deciding what the Italian invasion of Greece means. It may be merely a factical move, designed to consolidate the axis position in the Baikans by securing vital air and naval bases and, by the same token, depriving Britain of their use.

Pessession of these bases would against the British in the eastern Mediterranean through the winter even it a move against the Dardanelles were deferred until spring. The chief purpose of the lightning stroke lindoubtedly was to take the British by surprise if possible. England long has been pledged to give Greece all possible aid if the little country was attacked, and would be expected to get into immediate action if London was on its toes.

Once the initial retemonies are over comerrow, officials estimate that the drawing will proceed at the rate of between 700 and 800 numbers an hour. From start to flush, the lottery is expected to require a minimum of 12 hours.

With few exceptions, local draft boards were believed to have finished the lob of shuffling, numbering and posting the serial numbering and posting the serial numbers of almost 17,000,000 registration cards.

Selective service headquarters, busy with last-minute queries, yesterday enunciated the broad principle that the conscription program would not be allowed to interfere with the national drive to forge weapons of defense.

"At this stage," said Draft Director Charence A. Dykstra, "material procurement is paramount. Therefore, where two requirements—milliary manpower versus production—conflict, production should have priority."

National selective service headquarters, he said, was vitally intercated in keeping key men in essential johs. He emphasized, however, that all occupational deferiments would be decided on an individual basis and by local boards.

Clubs "at Home." Flags flew in untown Marien resterday and in front of many Marien houses as the city joined in the national observance of Nnvy Day.

Saturday morning and afternoon the Marien Navy club sponsored a badge sale in uptown by the almost four cent retback since Thursday.

Net gains amounted to almost a cent a bushel at times while the upturn from early lows exceeded a cent. A sharp reduction in the domestic visible supply of 2,764, 600 bushels the past week reflected increased purchasing of commercially held grain for processing.

When closed 42-15 cent higher than Saturday, Dec. 85-14, May 8345-35; corn 53 lower to 55 higher, Dec. 6045-46, May 6135; oats 36-34 higher.

Low Blood Pressure

Whenever I publish an article on high blood pressure I get a number of letters from readers who want to know what to do about low blood pressure. I have always answered that the best thing to do is to get down on your knees and give thanks that you have it. A recent article by Dr. Samuel C. Robinson gives some support to my long expressed views.

Most of my correspondents found they had low blood pressure accidentally. They were not sick, had no uncomfortable symptoms, but on a life insurance examination or school physical examination or school physical examination or school physical examination, or preliminary to a job, it was found. Long ago the symptoms of low blood pressure were put down as occurring in a person who lacked stamina, thred easily, complained of cold examination.
